Ortenzio Heart Center - Unparalleled Cardiac Care

It started out as a typical morning for Paul Zeigler, an emergency services dispatcher. But when a sudden pain moved to his chest, Paul knew he was having a heart attack. At Holy Spirit's ER, he remembers "staff who were prepared to save my life." In The Ortenzio Heart Center, physicians cleared almost totally blocked arteries. "I was amazed at the advanced heart care," he says. Today, Paul is thankful for "unbelievable care," for both him and his family.

The Birthplace - Family-Centered Care

First came the surprising news — and Shana Longenecker were expecting twins. Then came the challenge — it would be a pre-term delivery, eight weeks early. Born at The Birthplace at Holy Spirit, the twin girls were immediately placed in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) for specialized care. "The nurses in the NICU were incredible. Knowing they were there 24/7 caring for Rylee and Morgan gave us peace of mind." Today the twins are thriving. "We picked Holy Spirit because we wanted individualized care," says Shana. "I believe having them in the NICU at Holy Spirit saved their lives."

Holy Spirit offers a comprehensive array of inpatient and outpatient services, including pre- and post-hospital care.

Emergency Care - When Time is Critical

Life and death situations are nothing new to Chief Warrant Officer Kevin Wood, a combat veteran and paratroop jumpmaster. One evening at home, a sudden, severe pain ripped through his chest. His wife took him to Holy Spirit's John R. Dietz Emergency Center, where physicians diagnosed an aortic aneurysm and rushed Kevin to surgery. Facing an often fatal diagnosis, he placed his trust in his team of medical experts. "The care of the nurses, the attention of the staff, it was amazing," Kevin says. He credits Holy Spirit for outstanding care that moved him quickly along the road to recovery.

Cancer Care - Patient-Centered Healing

Two days before her wedding, 39-year-old Wanda Bollinger learned she had breast cancer. Her husband-to-be said, "I'm not ready to lose you yet." The wedding took place as planned, then Wanda scheduled her surgery at Holy Spirit, which offers chemotherapy and surgery for cancer patients in a warm, supportive environment. "The nurses were wonderful," she says. Though she faces more treatment, Wanda isn't dispirited. "I have so much to live for."

Behavioral Health - Strengthening Families

Like most mothers, Ann Alexander does whatever it takes to keep her family healthy and secure. Sometimes, the emotional and behavioral challenges make this task overwhelming. That's when she is thankful for Holy Spirit's Behavioral Health Center. Three of Ann's children live with autism, bipolar disorder, attention deficit hyperactive disorder and depression. Her husband also has bipolar disorder. For Ann, Holy Spirit is her lifeline. "Our needs are ongoing," she says. "I don't know what I would do without Holy Spirit."
